Chester/Lake Almanor Area
Lake Almanor and its mirror-like views of Lassen Peak make it a popular base camp for fall foliage drives. Start out on Main Street in Chester, where cottonwoods and domestic maple grace the highway and banks of the Feather River. Miles of reddened dogwood are found east and west on Hwy. 36. Turning onto Feather River Drive at the fire hall, you’ll be rewarded with glowing birch and aspen along forest roads to Warner Valley, Benner Creek and Juniper Lake. East of Chester, follow Hwy. 36 to Hwy. 32, which parallels Deer Creek. There are many places to pull over and enjoy the alders, oaks and Indian rhubarb along the creek. Another great drive is into Lassen Volcanic National Park on Hwy. 89, for quaking aspen, thermal pools and stunning landscapes. To Auburn:
• Just east of Quincy, turn south on La Porte Road and drive less than a mile to the old Thompson Ranch. On the left side of the road stands an enormous English maple that turns incredible shades of champagne pink and deep scarlet. The steep 45-minute drive to the former Gold Rush town of La Porte is a spectacular fall drive.
• Middle Fork Feather River around Graeagle, where golfers also can take in fabulous foliage on the area’s forest-laden courses. Take a short drive on County Road A14, leading to the charming town of Johnsville and Plumas-Eureka State Park. A must-see destination for leaf peepers is over the Gold Lake Highway into the pristine, rugged Lakes Basin Recreation Area. Quaking aspen, cottonwoods and a myriad of ground cover provide the luminous color that contrasts starkly against granite peaks and sparkling alpine lakes. You can spot good color along numerous hiking trails and side roads. The drive past the Sierra Buttes and into Sierra City continues the dramatic show along the Yuba River on Hwy. 49.

Quincy/Bucks Lake Area
Stately ornamental silver maples, liquid ambers, sycamores, locust trees and Virginia creeper adorn downtown Quincy, framing its grand four-story courthouse and historic homes with autumn splendor. Don’t miss the row of maples at Quincy High School, from there take Quincy Junction Road to Chandler Road for spectacular valley vistas of oak and cottonwood. Then head up Bucks Lake Road, home to large masses of dogwood and Big Leaf maple, with worthy side trips on unpaved roads out of Meadow Valley. Follow the Big Creek route, and continue a few miles past Bucks Lake, where there are several beautiful groves of aspen and creek willow.

La Porte Road/Cromberg
Just east of Quincy, turn south on La Porte Road and drive less than a mile to the old Thompson Ranch. On the left side of the road stands an enormous English maple that turns incredible shades of champagne pink and deep scarlet. The steep 45-minute drive to the former Gold Rush town of La Porte is a spectacular fall color excursion that winds along canyons and meadows, crossing the Middle Fork Feather River and passing a historic bridge. Back on Hwy. 70, dazzling colors of oak, cottonwood and dogwood jump out at you from the roadway, hillsides and mountaintops between Quincy and Cromberg.

Graeagle/Lakes Basin Recreation Area
Cottonwoods, willow and aspen turn yellow to gold along the Middle Fork Feather River around Graeagle, where golfers also can take in fabulous foliage on the area’s forest-laden courses. Take a short drive on County Road A14, leading to the charming town of Johnsville and Plumas-Eureka State Park. A must-see destination for leaf peepers is over the Gold Lake Highway into the pristine, rugged Lakes Basin Recreation Area. Quaking aspen, cottonwoods and a myriad of ground cover provide the luminous color that contrasts starkly against granite peaks and sparkling alpine lakes. You can spot good color along numerous hiking trails and side roads. The drive past the Sierra Buttes and into Sierra City continues the dramatic show along the Yuba River on Hwy. 49.

Portola/Lake Davis/Beckwourth
Groves of bright yellow aspen and fall flowering are the highlight on the short trip to Lake Davis. Follow West Street north from Portola, and meander along the unpaved west side of the lake. Back on Hwy. 70 heading east of Portola, large golden cottonwoods frame the road as it parallels the Feather River. At Beckwourth, turn north onto the Beckwourth-Genesee Road and continue after it turns to gravel into the resplendent Clover Valley. Oak, aspen, willow, deerbrush and bitter cherry are abundant on this quiet drive, which can be combined into a longer loop with Hwy. 89.

Little Last Chance Creek/Frenchman Lake
Unique formations of dark volcanic rock form an exquisite backdrop for neon yellow aspen found on the road to Frenchman Lake north of Chilcoot. For a wide range of colors, species and vistas, venture off Hwy. 70 on a rewarding three-hour loop trip (approximately 35 miles) beginning (or ending) at Beckwourth-Genesee Road (see #7). From Beckwourth, continue past Crocker campground, to a T-intersection and turn right back onto pavement. Travel approximately five more miles, passing the Corlin Park campground and turn right at the sign toward Millford. Go about 100 yards and make another right onto 28BN02, which eventually follows Ferris Creek and Last Chance Creek. Continue south toward Frenchman Lake; the route becomes 25N11, following the lake’s west shore, and eventually returns to the paved Frenchman Lake Road that intersects Hwy. 70. Have a camera handy; you’ll pull over often to enjoy the large stands of aspen, plus willow, maples, cottonwood, oaks and more.
